"Change Happens: Are You Up For It?"

The FCCMA Winter Institute has been scheduled for February 7-8, 2013 in Lake Mary, Florida, at the Lake Mary Westin. Many of you know how prestigious this training event has become-it is regarded by many members as the best training offered. Attendance for the Winter Institute is limited to allow for the attendee interaction required with this type of program. Space is limited to 80 participants. Registrations have been coming in and there is limited space left. If you are interested in attending, register now! \(Read more\)

Supervisor to Leader

The Florida Institute of Government at the Florida State University is proud to announce that its highly acclaimed and popular Supervisor to Leader training program is being offered as a webinar series for the first time this December. Normally a three-day long program taught in a seminar setting, the Institute has adapted the Supervisor to Leader curriculum to develop a series of interactive webinar sessions to accommodate those who may not have the time, travel and training funds, or ability to participate in the traditional program. "Save the Date" - The Future of Credentialing

Are you an ICMA Credentialed Manager? Used to be? Wanna be? Not eligible yet? Join this session to discuss your likes, dislikes, ideas for the future, and what ICMA should do for members who are not yet eligible. \(Read more\)

B. Harold Farmer and Conference Scholarships

FCCMA offers two scholarships. The B. Harold Farmer Scholarship is a scholarship for students who are pursuing a public administration or related degree at a Florida-based university during the summer or fall of 2013. The scholarship recipient will receive a $2,500 scholarship toward his/her education and an all-expense paid trip to attend the FCCMA Annual Conference. The attendance at the Conference allows the student a networking opportunity to meet people working in the field.

The FCCMA Annual Conference Emerging Leaders Scholarship is designed to allow public administration students and entry-level city and county management professionals interested in continuing their academic and professional development as professional public managers to attend the annual conference. The FCCMA conference is a professional development program designed to promote continued education and networking opportunities in the municipal and county management profession. The scholarship is awarded to individuals once per lifetime.
