This same session will be held both February 22nd and February 23rd.

Servant Leadership can truly transform an organization. If the transformation of your culture is to be sustainable, it must begin with you personally answering the question: What must I do to walk the talk of an authentic servant leader? This is at the heart of determining whether your employees will trust your authenticity as a leader enough to walk the talk themselves. This session will take the critical concepts of servant leadership and examine them at an individual level to help you create your own personal road map to authentic servant leadership. This is a wonderful opportunity for FCCMA members to participate in a professional development session in local government leadership. Ron Holifield is an outstanding presenter and is a nationally recognized expert in the field of local government recruitment and leadership. Prior to the training, an I-OPT Assessment will be sent to the registrants to complete. This survey normally costs $150 but is being sent to the attendees for free as part of the workshop.
